MINISTRY OF NATURAL RESOURCES AND SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH

RESOLUTION

New Delhi, the 6th October 1956

No. MII-181(10)/56.—Oil having been found in economic quantities in the Naharkatiya field of Assam, it is urgently necessary to make arrangements for a refinery (to be set up by a Company sponsored by Government) to refine the oil produced in this field. The probable production of this field has been estimated by the Assam Oil Company at about 2 million tons per annum. The location of a refinery has to be decided taking into account the relative merits of location at the oilfield itself or within close proximity of it and location at a centre of consumption or a place from which the centres of consumption could be fed with ease. These merits need to be assessed on—

- (a) the areas and quantities of consumption.
- (b) the means of transport available or proposed.
- (c) the cost of transport of
  - (i) the material for the erection of the refinery and ancillaries;
  - (ii) the crude oil or refined products;
- (d) the cost and availability of land, labour and other facilities required for the refinery;
- (e) other relevant factors such as capital requirements, expedition, safety, future requirements, maintenance and economy.

NOTE.—The site of the refinery will be determined later on when a project report is called for; the determination of the area of location is necessary to enable Government to take steps regarding arrangements needed for transport and to ascertain requirement of capital and foreign exchange.

2. The Government of India is accordingly pleased to constitute a Committee as follows to advise on the location of the refinery:—

- (i) Shri S. S. Vasist, Adviser, Ministry of Railways—Chairman.
- (ii) Shri C. A. Subramanyan, Deputy Secretary, Ministry of W. H. & S.

RESOLUTION

New Delhi, the 26th September 1956

No. 12/43/56-A.C.—By their Resolution No. 12-Cot. Ind.(I)(3)/55, dated the 5th March, 1956, the Government of India constituted a Committee under the Chairmanship of Shri S. S. Khora I.C.S., Secretary, Ministry of Production to examine and report on certain technical aspects of the Ambar Charkha. At its first meeting, the Ambar Charkha Enquiry Committee expressed the view that the technical and economic aspects of the programme were inter-related and accordingly made a recommendation to Government that its terms of reference might be amplified so as to include the economic aspects of the Ambar Charkha as well. On 2nd May, 1956 Government by Notification appointed a Sub-Committee under the Chairman, Ambar Charkha Enquiry Committee, to investigate the economics of the Ambar Charkha programme. By mutual agreement, the two wings of the Committee worked together and framed unanimous conclusions and recommendations. The conclusions and recommendations were submitted to Government on the 25th of May, 1956 and the full report followed on the 23rd of June, 1956.

2. The Committee has made 43 recommendations which may be grouped under the following main heads:—

- (i) organisation including co-operatives and a decentralised set-up, to make for the development and transformation of village economy;
- (ii) training;
- (iii) research and experiments;
- (iv) marketing including quality marking and certification;
- (v) testing of the Ambar Charkha and its accessories, before being used for production;
- (vi) cultivation of cotton;
- (vii) technological efficiency of the Ambar Charkha and the yarn produced;
- (viii) financial provision required for the Ambar Charkha programme including the aspect of subsidy;
- (ix) programme for 1956-57 and its possible expansion during 1957-58;
- (x) incorporation of existing khadi looms and existing handlooms using mill yarn, within the programme;
- (xi) preference to handloom weavers' families in the matter of training and supply of Ambar Charkhas;
- (xii) establishment of finishing centres; and
- (xiii) use of Ambar cloth for Government requirements.

3. The Government of India have examined the recommendations of the Ambar Charkha Enquiry Committee and accepted them subject to certain comments and modifications indicated as under—

- (i) Recommendation No. 5 states that Government should set up a separate Textile Research Centre mainly devoted to decentralised spinning and weaving, with regional centres.

With a view to effect economy as also to utilise the experience of existing textile research institutes, Government have decided that instead of establishing a separate centre, the work of further research and experiments should be entrusted to the existing textile technological institutes and that the latter should be given financial assistance where necessary. The Village Industries Research Institute under the All India Khadi and Village Industries Board will also be utilised for the purpose.

- (ii) In recommendation No. 12, the Committee has suggested that Ambar Charkhas should be manufactured on a fully decentralised basis and not in central factories. While Government have accepted this recommendation in principle they have, as an interim measure and in deference to the needs of the immediate situation, agreed that Ambar Charkhas may be manufactured in factories on a limited scale;
- (iii) In recommendation No. 17, it has been stated that the concept of "certification" by the All India Khadi and Village Industries Board should gradually give place to the concept of a normally decentralised village industry and that there should be ultimately no "certification" of looms by the Board. In view of the need of distinguishing Ambar cloth for purposes of subsidy as also to retain certain other advantages inherent in the system of "certification", Government have decided that "certification" should continue for some time more;
- (iv) The Committee in Recommendation No. 19 has suggested that effort should be directed at every point towards the target in the first instance of bringing down the need for subsidy to a total of annas -/2/- in the rupee for Ambar cloth. In recommendation No. 38 the Committee has desired that the objective should be stated and established of attaining the point where subsidy would no longer be necessary for decentralised spinning and weaving. Government consider that the time is not ripe to take a decision on these recommendations. These will be considered as and when circumstances warrant.
- (v) In recommendation No. 27, the Committee has stated that the existing Khadi looms should all go over to Ambar yarn as part of the first phase of the programme and the traditional charkha should be progressively replaced by the Ambar Charkha. In recommendation No. 28, the Committee has reiterated the view that existing handlooms should be brought into the scheme to weave Ambar yarn instead of new handlooms being set up specially for the purpose. Government consider that there should be no element of compulsion and are of the view that the switch-over will take place naturally as the superiority of the Ambar Charkha is established. They do, however accept the Committee's view that as far as possible the bringing into being of a new group of weavers at the cost of existing professional weavers should be avoided.
- (vi) In recommendation No. 32, the Committee has recommended that subject to organisational problems being solved in a practical manner, members of weavers' families should be trained and supplied with Ambar Charkhas in preference to others and at least 75 per cent.

of the spinners, other than the present spinners of traditional khadi yarn, should be from weavers families. In partial modification of this, Government have decided not to adhere to the figure of 75 per cent. advocated by the Committee rigidly since there will be other considerations determining the location and distribution of Ambar Charkhas. Government, however, desire that this recommendation should be implemented as far as practicable.

- (vii) In recommendation No. 33 it has been stated that subject to organisational problems being solved in a practical manner, Ambar yarn produced for weaving should, except only for the training to be imparted, be spun in the spinners' homes and not at spinning centres. While Government have accepted this recommendation in principle, in order to meet the immediate necessity of expediting production, they have for the time being permitted the setting up of a few organised production centres.

ORDER

Ordered that a copy of this Resolution may be communicated to all the Members of the Ambar Charkha Enquiry Committee, all the Ministries of the Government of India, Planning Commission, Cabinet Secretariat, Prime Minister's Secretariat and all State Governments.

Ordered also that it be published in the Gazette of India.
